Square One is proud to present "Sweat & Blood", a solo exhibition featuring new paintings by artist Jeremy Booth. The exhibition will be on view from February 7th - March 7th at Square One Gallery in St. Louis, Missouri. The opening reception event will be held Friday, February 7th from 6-9pm CST.

Kentucky-based artist Jeremy Booth boldly captures the essence of the Wild West with daring minimalism in his art. Focused primarily on iconic cowboys and Western landscapes, his work embodies the spirit of resilience and adventure inherent in the Wild West. His bold and minimal style captures the West in a cinematic, colorful, and surprising manner. Through his modern portrayal of the West, Jeremy seeks to honor and celebrate the figures and lifestyles he paints. The cowboy lifestyle, with its honesty, hard work, and simplicity, resonates deeply with his audience, creating a strong connection through his work and his process.

Jeremy's journey began many years ago as a commercial artist with representation worldwide. He worked with esteemed clients like Apple, Warby Parker, MLB, and British GQ. A few years ago, he made a bold decision to shift his focus to fine art, a move that led him to the Western motif and a new chapter in his Career. His work has been featured and sold in Christie's esteemed auction house. Notable clients include Wrangler, Nike, Apple, Warby Parker, and British GQ.

As an artist that practices in both physical and digital mediums, Booth's process begins on ranches throughout the west, using photography to capture the intimate moments of cowboy life. Transforming these scenes into his own artistic voice, he takes his imagery off-screen and into the physical world through vivid and pictorial compositions that highlight his subjects in a contemporary manner.

"Sweat & Blood" lies at the heart of the Cowboy. Each day greets them with hard work and beauty. This collection of works highlights those moments, offering a glimpse into their daily lives. It's honest and it's true. The rough and gritty portrayal of the American West and my minimal and colorful approach to painting create a beautiful portrayal of juxtaposition. Something you have to see for yourself."
